

E.H. Angle Society to Celebrate 37th Biennial Meeting in Quebec City, Quebec

We hope you will join us at the 37th Biennial meeting of the Edward H. Angle Society of Orthodontists. Come for the uniquely warm Angle camaraderie. Come because you will enjoy the clean, safe and incredibly beautiful Quebec City — at one of Condé Nast's highest rated venues, the Chateau Frontenac. The city features exquisite boutiques and art galleries, antique stores, and artisan booths; it is known to present some of the most magnificent cuisine and wonderfully intimate restaurants in the world. Quebec's historical legacy is bounteous, and we have scheduled our congregation at the peak of the color tour with plenty of opportunity to delve into the natural attractions. Oh yes, come because they serve the best coffee this side of the Atlantic and fabulous chocolate filled croissants. The planning committee for the 2007 Biennial is working hard to provide a rich experience.

Change in Meeting Dates:

Please note, we have moved the dates of our meeting to September 15–20, 2007.

Meeting Site:

Fairmont Le Chateau Frontenac: at the beginning of the 17th century, a castle was constructed atop the commanding vantage point overlooking the St. Lawrence River. In 1620, this served to house the troops of Samuel de Champlain, official representative of Louis XII and founder of Quebec. Later it became the official residence of the first governor of Nouvelle-France and was called Chateau Saint-Louis. Finally in 1893, it was purchased by Sir William Van Horne, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and turned into a luxury hotel. The hotel has been renovated numerous times, most recently four years ago and is one of the premier resort destinations in the world. Our board will convene in the salon where, in 1943 and '44, Prime Minister Mackenzie King hosted Roosevelt, Churchill and the other allied leaders to plan the invasion of Germany and the operations in the Pacific. The Frontenac was designated a world heritage site by UNESCO in 1985.

finest chefs. Our final banquet will be a musical extravaganza held in the grand ballroom, which on various occasions has hosted the world's elite. Whale watching excursions and trips to Montmorency Falls will be available, as will golf, tennis and myriad activities, not to mention antique shops, exquisite boutiques, or just a cozy auberge.

Timing:

The meeting has been planned to coincide with the peak of the "color season." The North East, and especially Quebec, has vegetation that provides a spectacular palate for Jack Frost; you will not be disappointed!

The Program:

AngleEast's Sheldon Peck will be the memorial speaker; he will endeavor to provide new insights into Angle and his thinking. Beyond the entries from each of the components, Lysle Johnston will be coming out of retirement to lead a collection of special presentations which will focus on the essence of evidence-based treatment.

Special Events:

Within site of the Plains of Abraham, we will be treated to visages of Louis Joseph, Marquis de Montcalm and Brigadier General James Wolf, both of whom lost their lives on that plateau in a battle that decided the fate of Canada. We will learn about the culture of French Canada, both then and now; and lessons in haute cuisine will be provided by some of Quebec's

Getting there:

For those who can arrange to fly through Winnipeg, New York, Detroit, Montreal or Toronto, arriving at Quebec City's international airport is not a problem; once there, it is a fifteen minute cab ride to the Frontenac. Plans are in the works to have direct flights from Boston and Newark by 2006. We suggest you book your flights early so as to secure good connections. An easy alternative would be to fly to Montreal, rent a car and enjoy the two hour drive along the St. Laurent River to Quebec City. There are spectacular antique shops along the way!

Extend your visit in a very special way:

Montreal has been selected as the 2007 site of The President's Cup. Fortunately for us, this charity event which features a team of the twelve current U.S. leaders taking on a team from around the world will be played two weeks prior to our meeting. AngleEast member, Don Taylor, a member of the Royal Montreal Golf Club, will be arranging for interested Angle members to play this championship course on the Monday of our meeting. The following day, a bus will provide a tour of the incredible antiques barns on the highway between Montreal and Quebec City. Similarly, return transportation will be available to Montreal, following the meeting, so that round-trip fares to and from Montreal can reduce the cost of "getting there." By the way, our golf outing during the meeting will be on the sister course in Quebec City. Interested members should contact us early so as to minimize difficulties in arranging such a special event.

Come join us in North America's most spectacular walled city. We guarantee a marvelous meeting!
